NYLIFE Securities

NYLIFE Securities focuses on providing clients with world-class brokerage services and a wide variety of self-directed investment options including fixed income services, stocks and exchange traded funds (ETFs). NYLIFE Securities financial services professionals may not solicit or recommend the purchase or sale of general securities, such as ETFs, stocks, and bonds. Your financial services professional can help you evaluate your investment objectives, risk tolerance, financial situation and other individual factors and assist you in opening a brokerage account.

ETFs generally represent a portfolio of securities, derivative instruments, currencies or commodities. The risks of owning an ETF generally reflect the risks of owning the underlying securities or commodities the ETF is designed to track. ETFs are also subject to market price risk. Shares of ETFs are traded on an exchange and trade at market price, which may be above (trading at a “premium') or below (trading at a “discount”) its net asset value (NAV). There is also liquidity risk because the trading of an ETF may be halted due to such things as market conditions. ETFs also have management fees and operating expenses that increase their costs. Additionally, investors pay brokerage commissions to purchase shares of ETFs.

The following list is a sample of the largest ETFs by asset class category based on Morningstar data as of December 2022and is made available for informational purposes only, (excluding short, leveraged, inverse, sector or volatility focused).
