Here's What Is Needed

Evidence of hospitalization and diagnosis, including, but not limited to:

Medical records documenting the event for which you're filing this claim

- Physician office visit notes
- Itemized medical bills

Specific condition-related documentation

- If you received a cancer diagnosis, a pathology report
- If you suffered a cardiac event, treatment and testing records (EKG results)
- If you suffered a stroke, documentation of neurological impairment
- If you suffered major organ failure, documentation that you were placed on the UNOS list
- If you are facing end stage renal failure, documentation of when you began dialysis treatment
- If you were hospitalized, admission and discharge summary with dates or form UB-04 (available thru the hospital's billing department)
- If you had surgery, an operative report

You can also send us your Explanation of Benefits (EOB) from your medical insurance carrier detailing the condition and treatment - available through your medical insurance carrier's website.

Once we have your records, we'll figure out all the benefits that are payable to you under your policy.

While we still may need additional supporting documentation, including such documentation with your submission will help in furnishing a timely claim decision.
